while others
have languished.
Studwell's in-

depth analysis
focuses on three
main areas: land
policy,
manufacturing,
and finance.

Land reform has
been essential
to the success of Asian
economies,

giving a kick-
start to development by

utilizing a
large workforce
and providing capital for growth. With manufacturing,
industrial development
alone is not sufficient,
Studwell argues.

Instead, countries need “export discipline,” a government that forces companies to compete on the global scale. And in finance, effective regulation is essential for fostering, and the automobile industry, and the sharing economy. The analysis extends beyond the domain of IP law, and includes economics and policy analysis. The overarching concerns of the book are how the

Studwell

examined industries have developed in the

two countries,

what role state
innovation

policy and/or IP policy has

played in such
development,

what the nature

is, whether such policy has been
causal,

facilitating,

crippling, co-

relational, or

irrelevant, and

whether there is

a possibility of

synergy between

the two economies. The book also

inquires as to why and how one

industry has developed in one
country and not
in the other,
and what India
and China can learn from each other. The book provides a real-

how IP laws
interact with innovation and
economic development in

the six selected

in China and India. The
reader can also
draw lessons
from the success
or failure of
these sectors.
